FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY Jan 31-AP M The gold market has been quiet to-day and the fluctuations were from 140% to 140%, with the closing trans-actions at 140%. The decime in the forenoon had the feet of stimulating the demand for foreign exchange, which reacted upon the premium, and beace the rebovery. The largest holders of coin are the English and nkers, and the "short" interest outstanding remains light, in consequence of the prevailing impres-tion that the tendency of the price of gold in greenbacks policy of Googress. Cash gold is therefore abundant, and loans were made at rates varying from three to seven per cent for carrying. The gross clearings amounted to $33.748,000, the gold balances to $1,951,774, and the currency balances to $2,755,142. It was known late in the afternoon that he House of Representatives had agreed by a vote of 204 to 43 to the report of the conference committee on he bill repealing the tax on cotton grown after 1867 and exempting foreign cotton from import duty after the first of November next, but the news exerted no ire was imperatively demanded on the score of fthe tax it is doubtful whether the next crop will be s large as the last one, for the poverty of planters and the-demoralization of the labor system are stumbling stocks in the way of cotton culture hard to be over-come in the face of the active competition of other ios in the cotton markets of the world. The unprincipled speculators and their emissaries who are been circulating false reports during the last few days, in order to depress the stock market, revamped their story about a new issue of Eric stock this morning saying that the Erie Company was about to capitalize s leases. This absurdity sufficed to make some per-ons sell out, and the stock at one time declined to 73%. any railway company in this State may capitalize its es, but the Erie Company pays seven per cent per upon these, and what same man would convert seven per cent security into a non-dividend paying one at 74%. The New York Central Company citalized its Athens branch lease last year, but the rate of interest in that case was only six per cent and tion took place. Had the stock been selling below par were receiving aix per cent under the lease ould not have entered into the arrangement. If, wever, the Eric Company could capitalize its leases, very good thing for the stockholders, as it would save the company the $700,000 a year which it to pay on account of these; but it is very obvious that there is no possibility of this ow par and pays no dividend. If New York Central ell above par before its six per cent leases were ould be necessary to the capitalization of the seven out foundation in fact. Their only object was to alarm imid holders of the stock and make them sell out, in order that they might buy at the decline, preparatory to a fresh upward movement. The speculative directors make it their business to adle the street by misrepresentation, and such men are a diagrace to the management of any corporation. personal gain, and make a nabit of lying in order that sy may steal from the pockets of the public. The the efforts to depress Erie seemed to have spent their force, and a general recovery of prices took place. Rock Island was particularly strong, and it is easy Court declaring the issue of the Supreme of new stock illegal there, would be a demand for that amount of old stock to replace it preliminary to the final disposition of the proceeds of the sale by the court under the management of a receiver. The natural ncy of prices on the Stock Exchange is upward, and this is strengthened by the growing plethora of money. Loans are made at four per cent on govern-ments and four and five on miscellaneous collaterals, while first class commercial paper is in demand at 5½ a 6½ per cent. The drain of currency from the West and is largely in excess of the demand.

Government accurates were dull and rather heavy good investment demand at the counters of the leading came strong, and there was a brisk speculative inquiry for five-twenties of all the issues, under which prices dvanced 1/4 a 1/4 per cent. The plethora of idle capital at this centre is causing large purchases to be made for temporary investment by the banks, trust companies and other corporations, as well as individuals, and the Transmitted to United States Mint, Philadelphia, condense of prices is upward. There is also an active for coinage. Central Pacific first mortgage railway bonds through the financial agents of the company, Messrs. The following circular has been issued to-day by Messrs. Fisk & Hatch in relation to the first mortgage bonds of the Central Pacific Railway Company:—

conds of the Central Pacific Railway Company:—
The sale of the first mortgage bonds of the Central Pacific Railroad Company has recently been so rapid and extensive that the full amount workly the company had proposed to sell at the original price of 95 and interest has been marketed, and the price has been navanced to 98 and interest. The progress of the road, the prosperous condition of the company's affairs, their abundant cash resources and high credit would stem to fully justify the advance in the price of their first mortgage bonds and to afford a sufficient guarantee of an active demand for the bonds at the advanced rate.

the Gold Exphange, in Now street. The public will be admitted as spectators, but only members of the two boards will be permitted to take part in the dealings. The object of this movement appears to be to exclude a number of persons who are not members of either board from transacting business as brokers or as buyers and sellers on their own account. This result may possibly be accomplished, but in the absence of any other use for the lower hall of the Stock Exchange the probability is that terms will be made which will result in the brokers returning to their old quarters, aithough it is a wretchedly dark and ill ventilated aparament.

Erie sold down to 74½ at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last sight, but it opened with a firmer tone this moraing, and at the early issuion of the open board asless were made at $4½ a 73½, and the whole railway share market was firm. THE INDIANA AND ILLINOIS CENTRAL SAILROAD.

[From the Evening Telegram of yearerday.]

INDIANAPOLE, Jan. 231, 1868.

The controlling stock of the Indiana and Illinois Central Railroad Company has been purchased by parties living along the line of track of the road, and a change made in the officors and directors. New officers and directors were elected at the meeting in this city yearerday. President, John K. Warren, of Decatur, Ill., Vice President, John K. Warren, of Putnam county, Ind.; Treasurer, Burrows, of Decatur, Secretary, W. A. Morrison, of Indianapolis. It was determined to remove the office of the company to Decatur, Ill., as soon as possible. The office of the land will remain in this city. This road is now in the hands of its friends. The mew officers and directors have taken hold with a determination to have the road built at an early day. The company now has assess to the amount of $1,000,000, which they are ready and anxious to turn over to any company of capitalists who will build the road.

visors." Mr. Hall, if we are not mistaken, is a New Yorker and a prominent lawyer, late from the formia, and latest from Mexico, where he was engaged in the defence of Maximilian before the court martial waton condemned the unfortunate Emperor to death.

Mr. Had says in his preface that it was not his purpose to give a history of the Mexican empire under Maxi-milian, "but to detail his personal qualities and actions, and to concludy state the facts and law pertaining to his milian, "but to detail his personal qualities and actions, and to concisely state the facts and law pertaining to his trul; adding thereto a short biographical sketch of his affectionate and talented spouse, the Empress Carlota." The first chapter of the book, however, gives us a very interesting outline of the rise and development of the Austrian empre, and the genealogy of the House of Hapsburg down to the present time. Then follows a greatch of Maximilian, from which it appears that he was a most accomplished Prince, a man of a generous nature, a fine scholar, an industrious and extensive traveller, a learned stateman, a popular ruler and, under all circumstances, an aminable gentleman, a genuine Christian and brave as Jaints Chesar. Next we have a sketch of "Poor,Carlota," in which her personal attractions, graces and accomplishments as a woman are represented as in perfect harmony with the superior sits of her imperial consort. Then we have a graphic account of the Castle of Miramar (the splendid retreat of Maximilian on the Adriatic), and from that point his remarkable and romantic adventures and velessitudes to his bloody death at Querctaro—a very interesting story from a writer whose heart was in his work. The illustrations (lithographs) of the book are a portrait of Maximilian in his imperial robes, the Empress Carlota, the Castle of Miramar (one of the very prettiest in haelf and in its situation of all the royal palaces of Europe, and the place, with its three heaps of stones and crosses on the dreary hithside, where Maximilian, Miramon and Mejia were executed. We have seldom met with so small a volume so tull of solid historical matter, or with its mass of facts so neathy woven into one of the most stitractive stories of romance.

SUPPOSED MURDER BY NEGROES IN GEORGIA.

Supposed Murder By Negroes in Georgia.

A White Man Stripped and Given Seventy-five Lushes.

(From the Savannah Republican, Jan. 24.)

On Wednesday a bloody murder was decovered to have been committed in Effingham county. As the tale is told, on the 24th of last month a white man, entirely onknown and supposed to be a foreigner, went to the cabin of a nearo near the Augusta road, seventeen miles from the city, drew out the staje which held the padlock and entered the place and stole a half peek of ground yeas. He was caught by the owner of the cabin, who, in company with three others, stripped the man, then tied him to a tree, and with a whip gave him seventy-five lashes upon his bare back and then torzed the suffering victim bosse. Nothing was said about the matter until Wednesday last, when some negroes, who were prowing in the swamp, suddenly had revealed to their gaze a sickening sight. There is the swamp, up to that time hidden from mortal sight, lay the body of a white men—or rather the remains of the body. The flesh upon the head and part of the body was gaten away. The negroes gathered up what was left of the body and carried it out of the swamp, and gave notice of their discovery, and a coroner's jury was called to investigate the matter. There were two bullet wounds in the bend—one in the back part, the other in the side. When the negroes lifted the body up the bullet in the back part of the head dropped out. The body was gaten found about a mile from where the whipping occurred. There was just enough of the flesh of the back action in the back part of the head dropped out. The body was called to be extended to the being that the to the sean that led to the being that the remains were those of the man who had been whipped. There on the flesh were plainly and distinctly visible the marks of the head, the weils raised by the blows struck by negroes. It is generally believed that it is the same person, and the natural conclusion is that after tormenting their view in the back marks of the head of the per
